PURPOSE

The final purpose of this Call is to select students of the international degree programmes in International Tourism and Leisure Industries; the second cycle degree programme in Tourism Economics and Management and the second cycle degree in Resource Economics and Sustainable Development to enable students to participate in the BIP Tourism & Hospitality at Sea – ITHAS, “Tourism Policy” at University of Zagreb, Croatia.

BIP activities: ITHAS is a unique eight-day sea or river educational voyage on 3-5 motor sailing boats usually along the Croatian Adriatic coast taking place from 11 to 18 May 2024. The uniqueness and the complexity of the program lie in the fact that it differs from common educational practices which involve field trips of small student groups from one institution usually accompanied by one or a few of their own professors. They are exposed to new scholarly inputs by non-resident professors and instructors. The students also benefit from the process of learning from each other in a multicultural environment.

Before the departure and after the return, all participants will be required to complete 5 working hours on Moodle platform, where they have to fulfill specific tasks about the topics discussed and the project, in the form of an “interactive book”.

Selected students will receive a grant to partially cover the costs of their short-term mobility and will have access to the structures of the hosting institution without paying further tuition fees (except contribution requested to local students).

FUNDING

The grant changes according to the duration in days (min. 5, max 7) and to the purposes of the expenses the students need to pay, as follows:

Duration	Amount
From first to seventh day (min. 5 days)	79 EURO per day

Students with less opportunities will receive a supplementary grant una tantum of € 100 for the mobility between 5 and 7 days. For students with less opportunities, travel expenses can be considered within specific price ceiling.

Student travelling “green”¹ can count on a further contribution una tantum of € 50. Further details about financial support will be shared with selected students.

Erasmus+ funding are related to the activities carried abroad and to the official recognition of the activities. Students who will not complete any activities with an adequate result, who will not receive any recognition of the activities, who will not request the recognition of the activities within their graduation or who withdraw the recognition, will have to refund the entire amount of the grant. Any dispensation will be decided by the Academic Bodies and will be notified to the selected students.

¹ Sustainable transport to reach the hosting institution, in particular trains and/or busses
